Ryder. Wimbledon. World Cup. The names hold as much history as do the newest images available at Alamy Images. Alamy now offers access to one of the largest privately owned collections of international sports pictures in the U.K. from commercial agency, Popperfoto. The collection includes the personalities, incidents, and controversies from the first 1927 Ryder Cup to 1999's in Boston, as well as thousands of others that showcase World Cup teams circa 1930 to 2002, and Wimbledon Tennis from early on to 2001.

In addition to Popperfoto, Alamy's collection includes both commercially and editorially led content from more than 1,000 photographers and 50 stock agencies, specializing in hard-to-find image brands. It has also recently updated its website, making it faster and easier to download high-resolution images at any time, including rights-protected. Alamy offers both rights-protected and royalty-free images. www.alamy.com
