Alamy creates another Magalogue

The one-stop shop for leading and 'hard to find' images, Alamy has just issued its third magalogue containing a small snapshot of their extensive, 100% web based portfolio. The magalogue covers a variety of subject matter relating to four themes, these are; Persona, which depicts human emotion and expression, From A to B and back again, covering the great journeys of all time, Teenage kicks, exploring adolescent fashions and Elements, which explores the beauty of the natural world.

Alamy Images provides image buyers with a single source for all their royalty-free (RF) and traditionally licensed image needs. Hundreds of thousands of commercial and editorial images can be found on the Alamy website and thousands are added every month. Subjects include everything from business and lifestyles through to extreme sports, gardening and architecture. Customers span some of the world's leading advertising, direct marketing and design agencies, publishers and broadcasters.
